Free Trade Show Seminar

Residential Fall Protection

You're invited to join us before the show opens for a free seminar on OSHA Residential Fall Protection Compliance.

- Are you a residential roofing contractor?
- Do you subcontract roofing work to others?
- Do you know how to get the job done AND comply with OSHA rules?
- Did you know that the most common OSHA citation in Colorado is for non-compliance with residential fall protection rules?
- OSHA recently revised its policy concerning residential fall protection. Is your company in compliance?

The CRA in partnership with OSHA is offering this free seminar to discuss OSHA's regulations for residential roofing work as well as OSHA's multi-employer worksite policy. The seminar will focus on practical ways to stay in compliance, including information about new residential fall protection products and technologies. OSHA will also explain the obligations of all employers performing, bidding and contracting work on residential job sites.
